"A new theory has been started with regard to the use of soap on the face. Women who for years have been careful of their complexions would never, under any circumstances, wash the face in soap, as it was said to roughen and coarsen the skin. Now, that Ivory Soap has been invented, this idea is exploded, and a well-known physician in the metropolitan profession recommends his women patients to use it freely every day, lathering the skin well. He states that none but the most beneficial results will be effected by this method of improving the skin.

He holds—with considerable plausibility—that the pores of the face become as much clogged by grease and dirt as the hands or any other portion of the body. And if soap is considered a necessary purifier in the bath, its needs must be felt equally on the face. By an abundant and regular lathering the facial pores, he claims, are kept open, clean, free from the clogging matter that produces unsightly blackheads, acne, pimples, and a pure, healthy, fresh and brighter complexion is the resultant. Not mincing matters, he says that the trouble with most women who have sallow, pasty skins is, that from year's end to year's end they never have a really clean face."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

ANOTHER MAMMOTH CAVE.

An Ohio Cavern That Rivals That of Kentucky in Wonderful Features.

A rival to the great Mammoth cave has at last been discovered. Henry Griendle, living on Limestone Ridge, over the line in Wyandot county, was plowing, when one of his horses broke through the earth into a deep hole. It was rescued from its position with great difficulty. Upon examing the spot Griendle found a large hole leading perpendicularly down into the earth. He dropped in a stone, and heard it rumble and rattle in its downward course till the sound died away in the distance.

Sensational reports of this discovery reached this city, and an exploring party was made up and drove over to the ridge to ascertain what was at the bottom of the story and the hole. The party consisted of half a dozen well known gentlemen, who were provided with ropes, lights, fireworks, etc., to make a thorough exploration. Having fixed everything in readiness for the descent, the question arose as to who should first go down. The men looked into the dark mysterious hole, mentally made a calculation as to the probability of finding a nest of rattlesnakes at the bottom, and each one was perfectly satisfied to let several of the others go first.

Finally one of the party summoned up sufficient courage and volunteered to make the descent alone. As he was lowered down, down, down, the light of his lantern could be seen growing fainter and smaller until a tiny speck was visible. After letting out the rope about 100 feet a faint, muffled whisper announced that he had found solid bottom. The reporter went down next, and finally the whole party found itself at the bottom of the shaft.

The hole descends through limestone rock all the way down and varies in diameter from three to thirty feet. The bottom is dry rock, and the place proved to be a capacious cavern. The place where the landing was made was estimated to be sixty feet in width, and while the ceiling at that point was low it gradually rose like a dome to the height of fully fifty feet. The floor was very uneven. The party had not gone a quarter of a mile when they were suddenly confronted by a yawning chasm, ten feet in width and of an unknown depth. Beyond this impassable cleft they could see the roof glittering in the light of their lanterns.

Several Roman candles were fired into the space, but the side walls could not be seen, so that there is no telling how far the cave extends in that direction. The fireworks revealed numerous stalactites and stalagmites of beautiful formation, whose marble like whiteness glistened and shone resplendent in the vari-colored lights. The roof sparkled with a frost like incrustation, which reflected the light from a myriad of shining points as though the whole dome were set in diamonds.

Retracing their steps for some distance, the party found to the right a small opening at the top of the steep ascent, and, entering it, were obliged to crawl on hands and knees for a distance of perhaps ten yards. Then the cavern suddenly opened into another mammoth chamber, apparently much larger than the first one, and possessing more stalactite formations. At a great distance from the entrance they came upon a lake of pure, cold water, as clear as crystal and of unfathomable depth. Holding the light to the water, a shining penny was dropped in and its gradual descent watched until it had fallen apparently fifty feet, when all trace of it was lost.

The water of the lake was perfectly still and dead, there being no current, and no signs of fish or animal life were visible. A few shells were picked up on the shores of the lake, and, being again shut off from further advance, the party retraced their steps. Openings were seen in other directions, as though the cavern extended its wings still further, but the fear of losing their way and of the oil in the lanterns giving out prevented further explorations at present. It is proposed at some time in the near future to make further examination, going provided with boats, ladders, planks, etc., that the lakes and chasms may not stop the way.—Findlay (O.) Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

Her Fortune Willed to Two Dogs.

The most extraordinary will ever made was probated here yesterday. Mrs. Mary Ann Schaub, an aged German lady who has lived in Nashville for the past sixty years, died at her home in the northern suburbs of the city, where she has lived for nearly half a century. She had no kin in the world of whom any one knows, and had surrounded herself by a number of dogs and cats. She had accumulated a handsome property, valued at about $6,000, and this she leaves in trust for two of her favorite dogs. The animals are of the commonest breed.

She provides that a sufficient sum shall be reserved from her personalty to maintain these dogs in comfort as long as they live, and especially orders one bed and clothing for their occupancy. A young lady whom she adopted is made secondary beneficiary, upon the condition that she will live in the house and care for the dogs for a period of eight years. If at the end of this time her task has been dutifully performed she shall come into possession of the entire property.—Nashville (Tenn.) Cor. Denver Republican.

A Wonderful Power.

Grand Reporter J. W. Jacobs, of the Knights of Honor of Indiana, is the possessor of singular power. By some occult process he can stop the bleeding of even dangerous wounds, and he has frequently been called upon in cases where physicians seemed powerless. All that he requires is to know the exact location of the patient, and, though he be several miles distant, the bleeding will cease. He never accepts any pay, nor does he want notoriety. Mr. Jacobs says it is not necessary that the patient believe in the healing power. He learned it when a boy from his sister-in-law, but has never taught it to any one else.—Indianapolis News.

The Sunken Farm.

Six miles from Petersburg, Va., in Prince George county, is Mr. George W. Gatling's farm, where a remarkable phenomenon, which is exciting widespread interest, is to be seen. This phenomenon is the sinking of a portion of the farm. The sunken area lies within a crescent shaped margin, and its width at the upper end is from 500 to 600 feet. The sunken territory contains six or more acres. The declivity begins at a point about 200 feet in a straight line from Mr. Gatling's dwelling. The land has sunk from forty to sixty feet, and July 25 it sank four more feet. The tops of trees which stood on the level with others are now standing intact and come a few feet only above the level of the bluff where the sinking has occurred. The sunken area is seamed with fissures of varying lengths and depths. The most noteworthy feature of the phenomenon is the formation of a bar in the river. This bar is seventy feet long, and in it, too, are many fissures. The phenomenon was preceded some weeks ago by something like an explosion, the noise of which was heard for miles.—Exchange.

An Aeronaut's Terrible Death.

Last night Professor Higgins and Miss De Voy were announced to make a balloon ascent from the Manchester race course and to descend by means of parachutes. Miss De Voy did not make the ascent, but the professor went up, and his assistant, a man named Lennox, also ascended, but in the car attached to the balloon. Professor Higgins descended from a great height in Alexandra park, falling into the ornamental pond there, but was unhurt. The balloon then went over towards Burnage, and, suddenly collapsing, fell, Lennox being killed. The balloon is said to have burst when approaching or passing over Fallowfield. The pace at which the balloon was descending was so terrific that the sand, instead of falling earthwards, actually streamed up into the air as the balloon shot through it, and as it was flying upward it had the appearance of smoke issuing from the balloon.

A Mr. Linton, who saw the balloon pass over Fallowfield, states that at that time he saw the man Lennox out on the netting which inclosed the silk portion of the balloon, climbing up to the top of the balloon. Evidently he had then discovered that the gas was fast leaving the balloon at the top, and was making a desperate effort to remedy the injury. When the balloon had descended to a distance of some four or five hundred yards from the ground the silk portion collapsed entirely, and the balloon then presented the appearance of an elongated cigar. A few seconds later the balloon fell with a terrific thud in a field. Two or three men at once rushed to the spot and tried to get the man from beneath the car. Apparently the car had fallen straight on the ground, and the whole of the upper part of the balloon had fallen on Lennox, completely covering him. It did not take the willing helpers long to remove the silk envelope, netting, etc., from above Lennox, but when they reached his body he gave not the slightest sign of life. One of his legs was twisted and broken, and he was badly cut about the face and head. He had apparently been instantaneously killed.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Rescued Him from a Bear.

Willie Hammer, an 11-year-old son of Benjamin Hammer, had an adventure last week, while herding his father's sheep over in the White river country, that came near proving fatal. The boy had been looking for grouse with a 32-caliber gun, and had just lain down on the ground to rest, when the sheep became frightened, and on looking to see the cause of the commotion a huge cinnamon bear was a few paces away facing him. Willie fired the gun at the breast of the bear, which caused him to come for him. He turned to run, but had gone only a few steps when he stepped into a hole and fell, and on rising and looking around the bear was close to him, and, rising up on his hind legs, he seized him and commenced to squeeze him, stopping for breath, the boy all the while trying to use a knife which he pulled from his pocket, but with no success, as his arms were held tightly above the elbow.

At this critical time the dog came up and bit the bear, causing him to drop the boy, which he did with a blow on the back of the head with his huge paw, knocking him senseless. This was about 2 o'clock, and when he came to his senses it was about 5 o'clock. He then gathered up the sheep, which had become badly scattered, and went to camp, his clothes nearly torn off and covered with blood, which, by the way, came from the bear, for the boy, though very sore and with head badly swollen, did not have a scratch on him.—Castle Rock Journal.

The National Flower.

According to Dr. Charles Pickering ("Chronological History of Plants," p. 909), the first reference to Magnolia glauca was made in a report of some navigators in 1584, who, proceeding to Roanoke island (North Carolina), found "the trees that beareth rind of the black synamon, of which like Capt. Winter brought from the Streights of Magellaun." It is found from New York and New Jersey through the Atlantic states, generally near the coast, to Florida, and through the gulf states into Texas. In the southern states it sometimes becomes a large tree, sixty or seventy feet high, with a trunk three or four feet in diameter, and is an evergreen. It has been suggested by some enthusiasts that this should be chosen as the "national flower," if we must have one. But, although the exquisite beauty and fragrance of the flower make it popular and desirable wherever known, it is recognized and prized by a comparatively small number of the people.—Garden and Forest.

A Huge Contract.

The Peruvian congress is progressing speedily in the discussion of the Donoughmore contract. Five articles are already approved—the first, by which the bondholders declare the foreign debt of Peru as finally canceled; the second giving them the railways of the state for sixty-six years (the perpetual possession did not meet with approbation); the third giving them 2,000,000 tons of guano, although the entire amount now exported does not reach over 600,000 tons; the use of the road and appurtenances thereof on the Arequipa railway, and the navigation of Lake Titicaca under the national flag and in national vessels, with the Peruvian officers in uniforms. All these have been passed.—Once a Week.

Georgia's Polyglot Nonogenarian.

Col. James Edward Calhoun, one of the richest men in this section of the country, and who is said to own 99,000 acres of land, is one of the finest educated men in the south. He was once a naval officer, and acquired such a knowledge of fifteen different languages that he could speak and write them fluently. He imperfectly knew ten other languages. He has not an English book in his house, but spends all his time reading works in some foreign language. He is now 93 years old, and is in remarkably good health for his age.—Elberton (Ga.) Star.

A LOGMAN'S ROMANCE.

Saved from the Pennsylvania Floods by a Girl Whom He Married.

John Prowley, a young fisherman, whose good natured habits have made him popular for many miles along the Susquehanna river, walked into the Perry county court house the other day and asked for a marriage license. His face was not so brown that it did not betray his blushes when he announced the name of his prospective bride, but it was not because she had ever been guilty of a wrongdoing that he flushed. The girl was Mary Yerger, and he was very proud of her. They had lived within ten miles of each other for years, but it was not until the recent great flood in Pennsylvania that they were brought to an acquaintance.

John is a carpenter's son, and he industriously aided his father to provide for a large family by fishing and piloting fishing parties from the big towns around the river. Most of his time was spent along the Susquehanna, near which his parents lived. When the June flood came people from all parts of the country hurried to the river to see its sights. Mary Yerger and a boy, son of the farmer with whom she lived, loitered on the water's edge until dusk of the day when the water had reached its highest mark. Few persons had tarried so long, but she and the boy forgot the time while looking out on the swift waters at a boom log catcher. He was standing in a frail skiff, hooking the big booms with a long pole and towing them to land on the opposite side of the river. Boom after boom was thus secured, and he operated with such vigorous regularity that it seemed his strength would soon be exhausted. He had just landed one of unusual size which took all his strength, and Mary thought he would rest a while before going out into the troublesome waters again. But he didn't, and wiping the perspiration from his brow with a part of his torn shirt sleeve, he quickly rowed out and was headed toward a large walnut log. Before he reached the coveted prize his boat had been caught between a mass of the booms, which ground it to pieces like a thing of glass. He escaped most miraculously from instant death by climbing over the logs and reaching the water. He tried to swim for the shore, but it was plainly seen that he was too much overcome to get even half the distance. The current was swift, and he was beginning to go down with it.

Mary Yerger knew that he would drown unless she saved him, for nobody else was in sight. It was a perilous attempt, but she did not hesitate. She was not the kind of a woman to see a human life thus sacrificed without at least an effort to rescue, and with almost superhuman strength she dragged into the water a rowboat that had been pulled up on elevated ground, safe from the rising water. When she reached the man he was so nearly exhausted that he could not climb into the boat without her assistance. That night from the same table at which John Prowley ate his supper, Mary Yerger's meal was also taken. It was at John's home, and the two sat around the table a long time, telling their experience of the early evening to John's parents and their other children. Mary was always thereafter a welcome guest at the Prowley home, and John spent much of his time in her company.

It was with a proud satisfaction that John related this circumstance while the clerk was filling out his marriage license. John and Mary are married now, and they expect to get a pretty good start toward housekeeping when the Lumbermen's Exchange of Williamsport pays for the logs which John caught.—Harrisburg Cor. New York Sun.

Twenty Years on Trial.

We sincerely hope that Dr. Brown-Sequard, of London, and Dr. Hammond, of Washington, are not playing upon us elderly gentlemen a practical joke, by pretending that they can inject into our shrunken veins the juices of rabbits and guinea pigs, and thus give to our advancing years the strength and vigor of a renewed and buoyant youth. Even the amount of twenty years taken from the threescore now attained would be a most grateful fact, and, as we now view the project, we think we would willingly submit to the injected matter unless we felt it would seriously impair our usefulness hereafter by imparting to us the nature of the pig and the courage of the rabbit. Nor yet do we see why this new being might not be attended with great success, for, indeed, we know many men with all the instincts of the hog, all the moral and mental deficiencies of the "bunnie," who have admirable success in life. At all events, we will try one term of twenty years.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Girls Saved by a Dog.

Last Sunday Miss Susie Feney, of Strawberry valley, and Miss Jessie Martin, of Oroville, who was visiting her, accompanied by an English mastiff, went into an adjacent wood in search of ferns. While seated on a log in an isolated part of the forest, quite a distance from their home, they were approached by a cinnamon bear. At sight of their visitor the young ladies started to run toward home, screaming at the top of their voices and followed by the bear. The mastiff was not afraid, and caught hold of the bear by the neck. A desperate struggle took place until two of Miss Feney's brothers arrived and shot the bear. The dog was so badly mangled that he will probably die.—Marysville Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

The Largest Diamond.

The largest diamond in the world is now at the Paris exposition. The Prince of Wales recently christened it the Imperial. It was found in South Africa in 1885 and was taken at once to Amsterdam, where it was being cut and polished for a year and a half. The Regent, formerly the largest known diamond, weighs 136 carats and is valued at 12,000,000 francs. The Imperial weighs 180 carats and is valued at from 15,000,000 to 17,000,000 francs.—Paris Letter.

As a Business Venture.

The business of the Eiffel tower turns out to be immense. M. Eiffel calculated that when everything was in working order the gate money would be $5,000 a day. Since the lifts have been in operation he is thought to have averaged more than this. It costs a franc to enter the tower, two francs to get up in the lift to the second floor, and four francs to the top. On any of the ordinary full price days more than 20,000 people have paid admission, and with the increased prices for those using the elevator, the entire receipts exceed $10,000. The original cost of the Eiffel tower, all included, was a little less than $1,000,000. The proprietor has to keep it in repair, and hand over one-fourth of his gate money to the exhibition. It is estimated that it will be half paid for when the exhibition closes, and then it will remain certainly three years more, and perhaps ten.—Boston Budget.

Cooper's Setting Snake.

Sam Cooper, the noted horse trainer in charge of the fair ground stables at Lawrenceburg, is the possessor of a pet blacksnake of enormous size. The reptile is very fond of its master, and will respond to his whistle and crawl from its cage whenever he desires. Not obeying him as readily as he expected yesterday, Sam opened the inner apartment of the cage to ascertain why his pet would not come forth, and was astonished to find the snake coiled over a nest of eggs she had laid. Since the discovery the number of eggs has been increased, and the reptile now squirms over ten. A crowd of persons surrounded the cage yesterday to see the unusual sight, but the snake soon grew furious, and even her master thought best to keep out of reach, as she showed fierce anger at any attempt to disturb the eggs.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Venom in a Horse's Teeth.

Isaiah Bentley, formerly of Hartford City (Ind.), a few weeks ago was attacked by his Arabian stallion and had his arm so badly mangled by the teeth of the infuriated animal that amputation was necessary. Word has just been received from Sabina, O., that Bentley died a few days since from the effects of the poison of the stallion's teeth.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

INVENTED FOR WOMAN'S WEAR.

An Improved Dress Which Resembles the Uniform Worn by Zouaves.

It appears that the exposition has suggested to an English tailor, who has a show case in it, the idea of exposing a costume conformable to the ideas of certain reformers in the matter of feminine apparel. Like Mme. de Valsayre, who has made a regular crusade against the modern style of dress, the British inventor is of opinion that in these days of full steam life the present robe and the petticoat are no longer practical, and that a less embarrassing covering must be adopted. The artist of the other side of the channel has not proposed, like Mme. de Valsayre, that women must put on nankin breeches and an Orleans vest; he has fallen back on an electic combination, a sort of fusion toilet which borrows from both sexes a portion of their resources.

The woman that enters into the new league will wear a zouave trousers, leaving the foot in bold relief, a straight petticoat open at the side, giving a view of the breeches, a flowing blouse with a scarf tied round the waist, and a vest, zouave fashion, of a shade different from the rest of the costume.

At first sight the thing looks like a uniform, and that is of all the reforms the one which women will be least inclined to adopt. The sex to which we owe the young creatures who change their toilets four times a day in front of the ocean delights only in variety and novelty, and it would prefer to die a thousand times rather than wear a costume which would appear to be modeled after that of its neighbors. The new fashion would last eight days, and then would be thrown aside with disdain.

But the art of dressmakers could add innumerable embellishments to the model which has just been described, and the importance of a reform evidently lies in the adoption of the breeches. It suppresses those feminine undergarments that frou frou so discreetly, and sweeps away the black and white skirts that are lifted with such a coquettish gesture when it rains. It abolishes the trains and sweepers that leave a wake of silk and lace behind the majesty of the walker. Certainly there is left a modest little petticoat, half open, to show the zouave trousers; but it is the masculine portion of the toilet that seduces, and, if it should triumph, it will be a step in advance toward equality of costume for the two sexes. There is little doubt, however, that the picturesque will be a loser by it.—Courrier des Etats-Unis.

The Eiffel Tower.

The Eiffel tower is getting decidedly what may be called "aggravating." Do what you will, you cannot get rid of it—wherever you go, there it is staring you in the face. If you try to turn your back upon it, all along the boulevards and the principal streets are Eiffel towers of every size, devoted to every purpose, from tiny charms for watch chains to large clocks for halls. If you fly to the country around Paris, there it is at every turn, looming down from the clouds—a nightmare cobweb, hanging in the skies. If your horizon is bounded by tiny suburban gardens, there again are miniature Eiffel towers, with little flags on the top, in exasperatingly bad taste. If a tall woman goes down a street, the gamins run after her shouting: "Mme. Eiffel! Mme. Eiffel!" And, of course, the high notes of the new soprano, Mme. Melba, soaring into the skies up to G in alt., are called "des notes Eiffel." Oh! who will deliver us from the Eiffel tower! But there it is, and one cannot help looking at it; and there are the people swarming like insects in what seems a mere piece of iron network; and there are the lifts, in semblance of small white houses, clinging to the girders like caterpillars on a wall, crawling upward and downward.—Murray's Magazine.

How Two Dover Girls Paid a Bet.

A couple of Dover's leading belles created a sensation in this staid old capital the other evening by trundling a well known butcher of sporting proclivities down the entire length of the principal thoroughfare in a wheelbarrow. The young ladies were talking one day about some of the peculiar bets that had been made on the baseball ground that afternoon, when the butcher came along and and joined in the conversation.

After insinuating that a lady never paid her wagers if she lost, he bet that there was a letter awaiting him at the postoffice, stipulating that if there was the ladies were to convey him to the depot, five blocks away, in a grocer's wheelbarrow, while if he lost he was to treat to ice cream. The young ladies accepted the bet and the trio visited the postoffice. The letter was there. It took the girls just about five minutes to borrow the shabbiest looking wheelbarrow in town, and in a trice they had it before the postoffice, where by this time quite a crowd had assembled.

The butcher tried hard to beg off, but willing hands dumped him in the wheelbarrow, and one of the maidens seized the handles. Off they went at a rapid gait without regard to the rider's bodily comfort. Hundreds of persons gathered to see the show, but it was the butcher and not the girls who felt out of place. Before they had gone a square he had offered to buy them everything from a quart of ice cream to a silk dress apiece if they would let up.

Never had such an interesting procession paraded Dover's streets. The girls trundled the wheelbarrow right up to the depot doors, and there, in the presence of an admiring crowd, they dumped their irate and half dead victim on the sidewalk.—Dover (Del.) Cor. Philadelphia Record.

Pasteur's Treatment of Hydrophobia.

M. Pasteur is responsible for the statement that out of 7,000 people who have undergone his treatment for hydrophobia the total number of deaths has been seventy-one, or 1 per cent. Two hundred and fourteen of these patients were English subjects, treated in Paris. Of these there were five unsuccessful cases after completion of the treatment and two more during treatment. The methods followed have been continually undergoing improvement, so that last year, out of a total of sixty-four English persons bitten by mad dogs and treated in Paris, not a single case has succumbed, although ten were bitten on the head and others on the limbs, often to a very serious extent.—Detroit Free Press.

An Aged Autograph Turtle.

A. S. Maine's dog at Westerly caught a veteran box turtle last week, while the dog was following the hired man, who was mowing in a meadow. On the turtle's shell were inscribed in deep letters: "I. Carrick, 1805;" "1839;" "J. K., 1869." Mr. Maine added his name and the date to the turtle's back load and then let it go.—Norwich (Conn.) Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Sure Sign.

Merritt—I'm afraid Cora's love for me isn't just what it might be.

Giles—That's nonsense, old boy. She fairly idolizes you.

Merritt—I don't know so much about that. I gave her a costly present last night, and before she thanked me she ran up stairs to show it to her mother.—Judge.

A Monster on Wheels.

A mammoth locomotive is rapidly nearing completion at the Schenectady Locomotive works. It was designed by George S. Strong, of the Strong Locomotive company. When completed the engine will easily make eighty miles an hour. It is intended for passenger service on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. It will undoubtedly be one of the most powerful locomotives ever constructed, as will be shown by the following dimensions: The cylinders are 18 inches diameter by 24 inch stroke; the drivers, four in number, are 5 feet 8 inches in diameter. The total wheel base is 29 feet 6 inches, while the rigid wheel base is 7 feet.

The leading truck wheels are of paper and are 2 feet 7 inches in diameter, while the trailing wheels are 3 feet 6 inches. Both leading and trailing trucks have a swing motion arrangement, enabling the engine to pass over curves at the highest rate of speed. The boiler contains 205 tubes 2 inches outside diameter. It is 4 feet 10 inches in diameter at its smallest ring. The length of the tubes is 10 feet 6 inches. There are two fire boxes, 7 feet long and 3 feet 2½ inches wide, and the combustion chamber is 8 feet long and 3 feet 5 inches in diameter. The total length of the boiler is 31 feet. The combustion chamber, in connection with the fire boxes, permits great economy in fuel, as it burns up all the smoke and gas instead of allowing it to escape. One of the advantages of the double fire box is that one can be shaken down while the other is left in full blast, thereby avoiding temporary deadening of the fire. The engineer's cab is perched on the top of the boiler, about at the center, and is occupied by the engineer alone, the fireman occupying a separate cab behind the boiler. The engine alone will weigh about sixty-five tons, and with the tender, which is built to ride like a passenger coach, the weight will be about eighty-five tons.—Troy Times.

SHE LIKES ORIGINAL PRAYERS.

Child Actress Marguerite Fields Objected to "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

Marguerite Fields is, without doubt, the most remarkable child actress in the country. She is scarcely 6 years old and has played with Mr. Oliver Byron in "The Upper Hand," "The Inside Track" and "Across the Continent," and everywhere she is the leading attraction and gets more recalls than any one else on the bill.

Her rendition of comic songs is her strong point, and her childish treble is clear enough to fill the largest hall.

The little one is full of originality and is always doing things which are not on the programme. Mr. Byron says he never knows when she is going to appear or what she is going to do.

Once in the farce called "Reuben Glue" she was standing on a chair holding up a loaf of bread at which she gazed, exclaiming: "The world is mine!"

Clara Morris' agent was in one of the boxes, and Mr. Byron, seeing him, said to the little girl: "You may get down now, Clara Morris."

Instantly the little one replied: "I'm not Clara Morris."

"Who are you then?"

"I'm Rueben Glue," she said, and then she sang, "When the Reubins Nest Again." It is needless to say that the house came down.

Marguerite has a little dog of which she is very fond. She carries it to the theatre with her, and once she interrupted a very tender breakfast table scene between two lovers by marching on the stage and setting the dog down among the dishes.

The little one is quick at repartee and says some very funny things, though in her innocence she is sometimes rather irreverent. Once while traveling on a sleeping car she begged to sleep with Mr. Byron. It was late at night, after a long performance, but the little girl was, to quote Mr. Byron's words, "as fresh as a daisy."

"Have you said your prayers, baby?" asked Mr. Byron.

"No, but I'll say 'em now," she replied, and turning over on her face she made a long petition, then putting her arms round Mr. Byron's neck, she said: "Now you say your prayers."

"I have said them."

"But I didn't hear you."

"Well, I certainly said them."

"Say them over again, then."

"Oh, no," said Mr. Byron. "That wouldn't do. God hasn't time to hear people say their prayers price."

"Well, say a little one just for me. God won't mind that."

In order to satisfy her Mr. Byron began to repeat: "Now I lay me down to sleep," when to his surprise Marguerite dropped her devout mood and exclaimed:

"Oh, that's a chestnut! Say me a prayer out of your head."

With all her brightness and despite the fact that she is made so much of, the little girl is as natural as a child should be. She seems to be all unconscious that she excites applause.

On one occasion she said: "I wish the people would stop clapping their hands. I wouldn't have to sing so loud then to make them hear."—New York Journal.

The Flood Cure for Baldness.

In a letter received yesterday by Dr. M. Marbury, residing at the corner of Independence avenue and Locust street, this city, is related an incident which is indeed marvelous, and, coming directly as it does, is beyond all doubt true. The letter is from Mr. Frank Marbury, a cousin of Dr. Marbury, who is just recovering from a frightful experience in the Johnstown flood. For seven long hours he battled with the waters for his life. Every hour seemed a day, but at last he was rescued several miles from the place where the hotel had stood.

The strange part of the story is yet to come. Mr. Marbury is 38 years of age, and for twelve years he has been entirely bald, and the top of his head had become quite popular with the flies as a summer resort. He had used the wonderful hair restoratives people read about in the hopes of starting the hair, but all to no purpose; it refused to grow. Two days after the flood he noticed a downy substance all over the hitherto bald head. As time passed the down became hair, which grew remarkably fast, and now has reached the length of one inch all over his head.—Kansas City Times.

Vacations Misused.

The Lancet declares that many sudden deaths are caused each year by misuse of the vacation season, and also affirms that the experience of most city physicians shows that overstrain is often followed by prolonged illness. We know a wise lawyer who never did anything the first day of his vacation, as little as possible the second; took a short walk the third, two short walks the fourth, and not until the eighth day was ready to climb a mountain. By this cautious course he grew stronger to the end, and returned home with vitality enough to work till the next outing came around. One can make a great change in his habits without detriment if he takes a long time to do it, but only young persons can risk sudden changes, and they sometimes fall victims to the strain.

POWDERLY'S TALK.

HE SAYS THE ELECTION SYSTEM IS CORRUPT AND VOTERS ARE TERRORIZED.

General Master Workman Powderly makes the following arraignement of the American system of elections, over his own signature in last week's Journal of United Labor:

"In the field of legislation the Knights of Labor have discovered that the honest man is less likely to receive a majority of votes than the dishonest man. If the honest man announces that he will buy no votes, will not treat the voters to drinks of any kind, will not pay the ward heeler for his influence, or in any way act the part of a corrupt politician, he will in all probability be defeated for his candor and honesty. Two causes are assigned: First. A lack of proper education in the principles of government on the part of the people. Second. The system by which the votes are counted is so flagrantly corrupt that it is the easiest thing in the world to purchase venal election officials and return the men who were not favored with a majority of the votes cast. Under our present election laws the voter is bribed, terrorized, browbeaten, debauched and deceived.

"This may seem to some as a libel on our election officers, but I know that it is absolutely and positively true. The sovereignty of the workingmen is a myth; he is subservient to his employer, to the saloon keeper and the political boss, and through that subserviency injures every other citizen by wrongful use of the ballot. This statement can be substantiated by witnesses in every community. The trader in votes will deny it; the office seeker it will call a libel on the dear peopl; the partisan may assert that it is wrong to charge the people with such sins, but the facts are too strong and the evidence too plenty to prove that what I assert is untrue. If not so why would bad laws be passed through the votes of representatives of the people? Why would the masses cry reform."

Mr. Powderly concludes by recommending the Australian ballot law.

Death of Ex-Judge Watts.

THE VENERABLE JURIST PASSES AWAY AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

Ex-Judge Frederick Watts died at his residence in Carlisle on Saturday morning, after being ill for several months. Judge Watts was born in Carlisle in May, 1801, and was a son of David Watts, one of the most distinguished lawyers of his day. His mother was a daughter of General Miller, of Revolutionary fame, and his grandfather, Frederick Watts, was a member of the Executive Council of Pennsylvania before the Revolutionary war.

He graduated from Dickinson College in 1819 and read law with his uncle, William Miles, Erie county, for two years. He returned to Carlisle in 1821 and entered the office of Andrew Carothers and was admitted to the bar in 1824 and as early as 1827 practiced in the Supreme Court of this State.

In 1845 he was elected president of the Cumberland Valley Railroad and continued in that office for twenty-six years. In 1849 he was commissioned by Governor Johnston President Judge of the Ninth Judicial district, composed of Cumberland, Perry and Juniata counties, and retained this until 1852. In 1854 he was elected president of the Board of Trustees of the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania, in which capacity he acted up to his death.

During 1871 he was appointed Commissioner of Agriculture at Washington which he filled for a number of years. He was the most prominent member of the bar in that section of the State.

PENNSY'S RIVAL.

THE BEECH CREEK AND THE VANDERBILTS.

A dispatch from Bellefonte says. It now seems that there is more in the purchase of the Beech Creek Railroad by the Vanderbuilt family than was at first apparent or is as yet generally known. It is all very well to have the enormous proceeds the road is now earning, which no company can is more for than the present owners. But the real incentive to the purchase was the culmination of a scheme hatched in the brain of William H. Vanderbilt four or more years ago and only now being practically excuted by his descendants. Here it is:

It has always been known that the one hobby of the senior Vanderbilt was to have a through line across the State of Pensylvanir ,and

IN COMPETITION TO THE PENSYLVANIA.

When the South Penn was in process of organization it was thought his purpose would be effected, but as it terminated mostly on paper the outlook for a competing line grew vague and distant. Now, however, with the Pine Creek and other Vanderbilt lines in the east, the 108 miles of the Beech Creek in the central part of the State, there remains an inconsiderable gap to complete a through line, and then taking into consideration the work partily done on the South Penn, there is stock enough subscribed to that apparently insolvent institution to build the intervening space, equip it and open up a competing line in opposition to the Pennsylvania.

THE ADVANTAGES.

Then note the advantages; The route will be right through the great coal and coke belt, take in most of the iron manufacturing localities, and, though the location and scenery will not compare with those of the Pennsylvania, that account, it will nevertheless have the advantage of being many miles shorter and run through the region from which it can haul the bulk of the coal and coke traffic, with a goodly share of the iron production.

Compare the resources of the Beech Creek at present with that of any other road and they are far in advance. The entire stock is only $5,000,000, preferred and common, and in 1887 the gross earnings of the road were $786,823,41, while the expenses all told were but $413,630,45, leaving the clear net profit of $373,192,96, or an interest of 7½ per cent, on subscribed stock.

INCREASED EARNINGS

For 1888 the increase was to almost 10 per cent, and it is now in fair way to show a proportionate increase for 1889.

SULLIVAN CONVICTED.

THE CHAMPION SLUGGER SURPRISED AT THE VERDICT.

PURVIS, Miss., August 16.

Before John L. Sullivan sat down to his noonday meal to-day he was so confident that he would be acquitted that he telegraphed to the Queen and Cresent Railroad office asking that two sleeping berths be reserved for himself and Mattie Clune on the fast mail which passes this place at 6 in the afternoon. But the jury returned a verdict of guilty of prize-fighting and he decided that he would have no use for the berths.

When Judge Terrall opened court at 9 o'clock the tired-looking jurors, who had slept on the benches in the court room all night, filed into the space reserved for them. Sullivan was not present, but came in soon after the argument commenced. Exceptions were made by the defense to the instructions asked by them and denied or modified by the court; also to the instructions asked for by the State.

THE CLOSING ARGUMENTS.

District Attorney Neville opened the argument by reading the bill of indictment. He said there would be no doubt in the minds of the jurors that there had been a prize fight and said that if Sullivan was acquitted "a damnable wrong" would be heaped on Major Robinson, the principal witness for the prosecution. God's holy Sabbath had been violated in pitching the ring, and three thousand strangers had defiantly entered Marion county and sneered at the authority of the Sheriff.

Judge Calhoun followed for the defense. He said Sullivan had made a square, manly fight, and he did not believe a Mississippi jury would want him punished for that. Calhoun seemed to think that the breaking of the Sabbath would prejudice the minds of the jurors, for he took great pains to explain that John L. had nothing to do with that. He also laid great stress upon the fact that it had not been proved that Kilrain was the man assaulted by the prisoner, and that the witnesses could not prove that money had been wagered.

PLEADING FOR THE STRANGER.

After a short recess Ex-Attorney General Ford pleaded with the jury to be lenient with a stranger from a far Northern State and to show a true spirit of Southern hospitality. "Treat this gentleman as a stranger among you, as a brother and a fellow-citizen," pleaded Mr. Ford, "and you will do justice to the country and to Mississippi." The court then adjourned for dinner.

On Saturday Sullivan was sentenced to a year's imprisonment in the county jail. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court, and he was released on bail, pending its decision.

MEMORIAL OF JACOB WENNER.

In 1817 the father of the deceased moved with his young family from Butler Twp., Luz., Co. to Fishingcreek Twp., this county, where he purchased 100 acres of land and soon after an addition of 118 acres. In those days the land was generally in a wild and unbroken condition. Great forests of heavy timber surrounded the log hut in its quiet nestling at the spring. The wild deer often approached this forest home and with wondering eye gazed upon this strange habitation of man; the feathered songster with his cheery note rendered the otherwise quiet retreat musical. This was indeed the home of a pioneer. Here a family was raised in true frontier style, all were taught by necessity to toil, the forest must be cleared, the ground broke up and the stones picked, before Mother Earth will nourish from her own bosom her children. Under these circumstances was raised a family of sturdy sons and daughters. Mr. Jacob Wenner was the oldest of these sons. He was taught to be industrious, honest, and to fear and serve his God. To these principles he adhered through his life. When a young man he married a Miss Leah Kauff who proved to be a faithful wife and mother, who manifested much interest in the religious training of her children. On June 3rd 1875 this good mother and faithful wife fell asleep in Jesus, leaving three sons and five daughters to survive her, all of whom are still living. After a few years Mr. Wenner married Miss Sallie Creveling who also proved to be a most worthy and congenial companion to her husband and was well received and beloved by the children who by this time had mostly passed from under the parents roof and formed homes of their own. As a pioneer Mr. Wenner was one of those who labored hard to bring the "Germany" of Fishing Creek Twp. up to its present high state of cultivation. Here are a number of fine farms which are as reliable in their production as the people there are in their credit. He was a good citizen, a peaceful neighbor, and a strict, though a faithful father. As he was taught so he taught his sons and daughters. He taught them to be industrious, honest, intelligent, and to fear and love their God. In his family is verified the divine adage. "Train up a child in the way in which he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

At an early day Mr. Wenner according to the good old custom of his church was catechised and confirmed a member of the Reformed Church at St James. He has remained faithful to his solemn confirmation vows and during the present pastorate he has been one of the most liberal contributors to the Pastor's salary and church Benevolence in that congregation.

As this noble soldier and supporter of the church has been called to the church triumphant, we naturally ask, Who will take his place? During the last three years this good brother had been greatly afflicted by sciatic rheumatism and finally congestion of the lungs set in which soon did the fatal work. Departing on the 15 instant, he was aged 74 years, 7 months and 1 day. He regretted very much that he could not attend the Harvest Home Reunion at Orangeville on the 18th day of Aug. But he has only preceded us to that great family reunion in Heaven "where congregations ne'er break up,"

Till then we will wait and hope to meet again.

Gen. James B. Colt, of Washington has purchased the gallows upon which John Brown was hung, and will use it as a means of obtaining money with which to erect a monument to the memory of the martyred abolitionist. The general's plan is to exhibit the gallows throughout the country with accompanying affidavits of Fredrick Douglass and others, who witnessed the execution. The monument will be erected at Holivar Heights' overlooking Harper's Ferry, the place were John Brown was hung.

Prohibition County Convention.

The prohibition party of Columbia Co, Pa met in convention in the free church at Millville, 8th Mo,17, 1889 and was called to order by Dr J. B. Patton Chairman of County Committee. The convention was opened by music by choir followed by prayer by Rev Horning, minutes of Convention held at Bloomsburg, 8th mo 18 1888, read and approved, S. W. Dixon of Berwick was elected Cheirman for the day. The reports of the officers were a review of the work of the past year, with some suggestions for the future. The committee to nominate candidates for offices for the ensuing year reported as follows; Chairman of County Committee J. B Patton, Treasurer, Shadrach Eves, Secretary, T. C. Wilson. The report of the committee was accepted, and the candidates elected. M. P. Lutz, and S. W. Dixon, were elected members of Excutive Committee. The delegates elected to attend the State Convention which is to meet at Harrisburg on the 28th inst. are S. W. Dixon and J. F. Kurtz, Berwick, M. P. Lutz and wife and Maud C. Walker, Bloomsburg, J. B. Patton; Millville, W. A Pitts and wife, Orangeville. The subject of distribution of prohibition literature was taken up and the convention was at work on a list of subscribers to the Scranton People when a very pleasant surprise occurred, caused by the arrival of Tallie Morgan, editor of the People. He was introduced to and addressed the convention, adding very much to the pleasure of the occasion. He had arrived at Bloomsburg, and through the kindness of Rev. Galloway was enabled to reach the convention.

The Convention was enlivened throughout by music by choir and a number of short addresses. The thanks of the Convention were extended by the Chairman to the musicians and also to Rev. Galloway. After securing a list of subscribers to the People and raising a fund to be placed in the treasury the Convention was dismissed with the Benediction.

THE POSTMASTER.

Winchester, Mass., says: I am personally acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Carleton, and was astonished at the remarkable effects of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son, and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact that it is an honest medicine. I know of many others who have been cured by its use, and I do not think too much can be said in its praise. Yours truly,

Geo. P. Brown, P. M.

Scraps of News.

Secretary William D. Seiler, of the State Agricultural society was in Philadelphia last week attending a meeting of the committee appointed to make arrangements for the Annual state Fair. After carefully discussing the condition of affairs the committee came to the conclusion that it would not be advisable to hold an exhibition this year as the people of Philadelphia have not taken enough interest in the matter.

On an average there have been two bodies found every day during the past week at Johnstown. There are undoubtedly a great many more in the cellars all ever town and at the present rate of cleaning up they will not all be exhumed this year. Two bodies that were recovered have been identified as Evan Hughes and Miss Bertha Strayer.

The trunk of Florence Massey, of San Fransisco, was taken charge of by the Pennsylvania R. R authorities. They also forwarded a valise belonging to Miss Bryan to Philadelphia.

The Purchasing Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad has awarded contracts for the construction of freight cars to eight firms, only one of which is located west of Erie and Pittsburg. There were a great many bidders for the work, and it is well understood that the Pennsylvania Railroad succeeded in getting the work done on very favorable terms. The fortunate contractors are the Pennsylvania Car Company, Detroit, Mich.; the Murray, Dougle Company, Milton; Erie Car Works, Erie; Pardee Snyder & Co., Washington; Harrisburg Car Manufacturing Company, Carlisle; M. Schall, York, and Schall & Shoop, Dauphin. A portion of the new cars will also be built at the company's shoops at Altoona. An agent of the railroad stated that as more cars were needed on the Western lines than in the East it is very probable that additional contracts will be placed among Western car builders.

It is estimated by careful officials at encampment headquarters that there will be 40,000 genuine veterans in attendance at the encampment at Milwaukee, and there will be seven "private citizens" or sightseers for every soldie. that will be there. This would bring a crowd of 200,000 visitors to be fed and furnished quarters. A general order issued by Commander-in-Chief Warner, under the date by August 13, that the business session of the encampment will convene at the West Side Turner Hall, August 28, at 10 a. m. The National Council of administration will meet at the Plankinton House, August 26. The parade will take place Tuesday August 27, and will be commanded by the Commander-in-Chief in person. The line of march will not exceed two and a half miles in length.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Billousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

In "murderer's row," of the New York City Prison, are five men who have been convicted of murdering women. They are sentenced to death and will be hanged on Friday of this week, unless meddlesome interference prevents. This "bunching" of such execution is a good idea since it emphasizes the fact that hanging is not played out.

The Ashland Advocate is one of the neatest of our exchanges in its mechanical make-up. It is bright and newsy, too.

Miss Amelia Armstrong's school for boys and girls will reopen Monday, Sept. 2, 1889. 8 24 2w.

One of the flag stones intended for the pavement at Clark & Son's store was broken in unloading it from the wagon, and its place was supplied by another one.

Camp Meeting will commence at Hess' Grove, Rupert, on Saturday 24th and will continue for ten days.

A. Z. Shoch has opened a stone quarry near Irondale, and is getting out some very fine building stone. There is a large seam there that is now being worked.

The Bloom Band and Gilmore's Band both attended the excursion of the American Mechanics last Thursday. Metherell's orchestra furnished music for dancing.

A new union depot is being erected at Kingston, Luzerne county, to accommodate the D. L. & W. R. R. and the Lehigh Valley.

A new schedule has been sent out by the B. & S. showing the connection at Bloomsburg with the Bloomsburg Branch of the P. & R. R. R.

It is said that the viewers appointed by the court to view the bridge at the Red Rocks and report upon the propriety of changing the location, will report against a change.

Mr. E. C. Wells cut off the end of the first finger of his right hand on Wednesday, while unloading some planing mill machinery which Creasy & Wells are putting in the Desk Factory.

The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad are capturing a great amount of freight from the town by their new branch. A few box cars are used now for freight, but a freight house will soon be built.

The Reformed Sunday School of Catawissa held a picnic in Hess' grove Rupert, on Wednesday and the M. E. Sunday School of the same place on Thursday of this week.

Two cases of wife beating have occurred in town recently. The man who strikes a woman under any circumstances is a miscreant and a coward, and the whipping post would be a proper method of punishment for him.

The A. M. E. Camp Meeting will begin in the Rupert Grove on August 24, and close September 1. Rev. Harriet A. Baker Rev. Benjamin Wheeler, Rev. Richard Tanner and others will be present and assist in the services. Admission 10 cents.

Mrs. Phillips has kept up with the march of progress by laying in front of her property, large flag stones the same as in front of Clark & Son's store. They are the full width of the pavement, and came from Cleveland.

Brauhall, Deane & Co, are putting in the kitchen of the Normal School a new set of cooking apparatus which embraces boilers, steamers, coffee boilers, and an oven. The entire apparatus will cost about $1000 when fully completed, and will give the school facilties for cooking that are equaled only by first class hotels.

Many bodily ills result from habitual constipation, and a fine constitution may be weakened and ruined by simple neglect. There is no medicine, for regulating the bowels and restoring a natural action to the digestive organs, equal to Ayer's Pills.

Sam Stills was arrested on Friday for whipping his wife. There was a gash cut over her eye by a blow from his fist. He was taken before Esq. Jacoby who was about to commit him to jail, when his wife relented, and the case was settled on his paying the costs.

Rev. A. W. Swengle, whose health has been failing for some time, is now among the hills of York county, for recuperation. During his absence, his pulpit will be supplied part of the time by ministers from adjoining charges. Rev. J. F. Shultz, the former pastor, will preach next Sabbath morning and evening.

Alexander Bros. & Co. are ready for their fall trade. They are carrying a heavy stock of tobacco, cigars, pipes, and confectionery, and their wholesale trade has attained large proportions. Pure goods, reasonable prices, and fair dealing have built up for them a high reputation as a business house.

The following letters are held at Bloomsburg, Pa., post-office, and will be sent to the dead letter office, Sep. 3, 1889:

Clara Byres, Miss Brotherton, Frank Car, Mr. J. W. Hartman, Phillip Moust, Mrs. Cattie Smith, Mrs. Lizzie Smith.

Persons calling for these letters please say, they were advertised Aug. 20, 1889.
GEORGE A. CLARK, P. M.

Ellery P. Ingham Esq, Special Deputy Collector of the Port of Philadelphia, holds a pleasant, and at the same time a very responsible position. He has a handsome office in the Custom House, and his duties are those of legal adviser to Collector Cooper. Mr. Ingham is a son of ex-Judge T. J. Ingham of Laporte, and is a lawyer of ability, and a gentleman whom it is a pleasure to meet.

On Thursday, September 12th there will be a re-union of the Hess' and their immediate relatives at Hess' grove Rupert. It is the purpose of having a record taken at that time, and trace the lineage. The Hess family is certainly a large one—possibly the largest of any in this section. Every effort will be made to make a grand success and have arrangements made for an annual re union in the future. Let all who are in this large family endeavor to spread the information and see that there be a full attendance.

Isaac Roadarmel was arrested on Monday night by Constable Woodward, on a warrant issued at the instance of Officer D. Laycock, on a charge of interfering with a police officer when he was making an arrest. On Saturday night as policeman Laycock was walking a man down the street Roadarmel and several others supposing the man was being taken to the lock-up, interfered and informed the officer that he must let the man go. Roadarmel was fined $6.50 and costs. The prosecution was brought as a warning to others that they must not interfere with peace officers in the discharge of their duty.

Our attention has been called to the fact that the wording of our report of the death of Mrs. Demott in Dr. Hower's dental office may give a wrong impression as to the action of Drs. Willits and McKelvy in the matter. Dr. Willits was first called in and examined Mrs. Demott, and on being asked by Mr. Demott whether he could do anything, replied that "it was all over." He knew that she was dead beyond all possibility of doubt, and there was nothing that he could do. He remained in the room a half hour, instead of going out immediately. Dr. McKelvy was called in, and he too saw at once that Mrs. Demott was past human aid, and that there was nothing to be done. Neither was indifferent or negligent, and had they been able to discover the faintest spark of life remaining, these skilful physicians would have used every appliance known to modern science to resuscitate the patient.

"I cannot praise Hood's Sarsaparilla half enough," says a mother whose son almost blind with scrofula, was cured by this medicine.

The Sunbury book-binder will be in town Monday.

Mrs. Samuel Keller of Newlyn Pa. had an operation for cataract performed on Wednesday by Dr. Brown.

The Shattuck Fountain Pen which is covered by several patents is now on the market. It can be used as a double or single feed as fancy dictates and is said by those who have used it to be as nearly perfect as a fountain pen can be.

The Philadelphia & Reading R. R. began running over the Bloomsburg Branch on Monday morning. The train consists of an engine and combination car. Mrs. Sterner's lot, corner of Main and Railroad streets has been purchased for $3,000, and the station will be located there.

At the close of the season probably early in October, the personal property of the Sanitarium and Catawissa House, will be put up for public sale to make room for parties coming in who are expected to open these buildings as a commercial hotel. Any of our readers wanting house-hold furniture or stable equipage, should attend this great sale.

The annual Harvest Home of the Heller's Reformed congregation will be held in Masteller's grove, Aug. 28th. Rev. Houtz, of Orangeville, Rev. Schoedler, of Turootville, Rev. Auman of Bloomsburg and Rev. O. H. Strunk, will be the visiting ministers. Larger preparations than ever are being made to make these services attractive, useful and enjoyable. All are invited to come and spend a day in the grove and return thanks to the Giver of our bountiful harvests.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Wilson, relict of the late William Wilson died at her residence on Market Street on Sunday last aged about 66 years. She had suffered many years with a cancer. The funeral took place at the house on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Wilson was an excellent christian woman. She leaves a son James, and a daughter, Miss Laura, both of whom reside at home.

Mrs. Dr. Mary Allen of Ithaca N. Y. authoress of the well known book "The Man Wonderful in the House Beautiful," will deliver a course of six lectures before the Normal School on Philosophy and Health, beginning Sept. 3rd and closing Sept. 6th. If forty persons make known to Professor Waller their desire to hear the course, at one dollar each, the lectures will be delivered in the Opera House, otherwise they will be in the Hall of the Normal School. Single lectures 25c.

Mrs. Anna Coffman, relict of the late Moses Coffman, died at her residence in Scott town on Wednesday night, aged 77 years. She was the mother of Court Crier D. R. Coffman, W. E. Coffman, Mrs. D. Winner, Mrs. Snyder of Plymouth, Mrs. Knapp of Parsons. One daughter, Mrs. Thomas, is dead. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Coffman was a member of the Reformed church, and was an exemplary christian woman.

Last Friday night Theta Castle K. G. E. celebrated their first anniversary by giving a supper to their lady friends at the Exchange Hotel. At the appointed hour, 9:30, sixty six ladies and gentlemen assembled in the parlors of the Hotel and at 10 o'clock were escorted by the obliging clerk, James McCloskey, to the dining room where a feast fit for the Gods awaited them. After partaking of the repast, a few of the Sir Knights being called upon, made brief and appropriate remarks; then all returned to their homes cherishing a high regard for the courteous treatment they received and an appreciation of the good things Tubbs knows so well how to prepare.

There is likely to be an issue between the Town authorities and the Bloom School Board on the subject of the system of heating and ventilation which the latter proposes to introduce into the new High School building. A complaint has been made by a number of citizens to the Sanitary Committee, and that committee has reported against the system. The School Board claim that they have investigated the matter and that the proposed system is the best in use, and they intend to go ahead until stopped by law. They say they have the proprietor of the system at their backs, who will pay all the expenses of litigation if there be any, and as they are fully satisfied that they are right, they will not be deterred from their purpose by a movement which they allege was started in the interest of the Steam Heating and Water Companies. The town council has done nothing beyond directing a copy of the petition and the reply of the Sanitary Committee to be presented to the School Board. It is likely that an injunction will be applied for, to restrain the School Board from putting the proposed heating and ventilating system in the building, and this will bring up the whole question as to the effect of the system on the health of the neighborhood. On the one hand it is alleged that the foul gases escaping from the closets of the school will breed disease by rendering the air impure, and on the other hand it is argued that where the system has been used, it has given entire satisfaction. This agitation will probably result in an investigation that will determine which is right.

It is estimated that 2500 people attended the excursion of the American Mechanics last Thursday at Central Park, on the B. & S. One of the incidents of the day was a fight. A big fellow named Eyer was saturated with rum to an extent that made him quarrelsome, and he was strutting about, inviting somebody to tread on the tail of his coat, and offering to whip the best man in the county. Finally he tackled a young man of slight build and volunteered to thrash him, and the proposition was accepted. Both took off their coats and under garments, and a ring was formed. When all was ready the latter snapped his fingers and motioned to Eyer to come on. Eyer started for him, and when near him dodged down quickly to catch him about the middle and throw him. The crowd stood around, expecting to see the young man go down in the first round, being much lighter than his antagonist, but as Eyer came up the other grabbed him by the back of the neck and with a quick motion downed him, and then rained the blows in his face until Eyer's eyes were nearly closed and his face badly cut. Then the young man arose and coolly donning his clothes as though nothing had happened, he disappeared. Eyer was carried into the hotel and seemed to be satisfied that he had had enough, at least he did not insist upon a second round. Ordinarily it would be very reprehensible for a crowd of men to stand and watch preparations for a fight between two fellow beings without interference, but when a fellow is aching for a set-to, and wants to whip the whole county, it is sometimes a good thing to give him a chance.

A perfect complexion, free from pimple or blemish, is very rarely seen, because few people have perfectly pure blood. And yet, all disfiguring eruptions are easily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Try it, and surprise your friends with the result.

Dr. F. W. Redeker of Espy, lost an interesting child of about seven months Sunday last. It was taken sick the evening before. Death is supposed to have been caused by brain fever.

James P. Sands died at his home in Mordansville on Friday last, after an illness of several months. His age was thirty-four years, eight months and twenty three days, and he leaves a wife and four children to mourn the loss of an affectionate husband and a kind father. Mrs. Sands is a daughter of Benjamin Eves. The funeral services were held at the house on Monday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. J. P. Tustin. At the grave the Masonic ritual was read, Mr. Sands being a member of that order.

James P. Sands was a son of the late Joseph E. Sands. He had been for several years engaged in the mercantile business. He enjoyed the confidence and respect of his community. It is said that he did many deeds of charity, and that he never refused an appeal for aid. He was always quiet and gentlemanly in deportment, and made many warm friends wherever he went. The funeral was largely attended, thus evincing the estimation in which he was held by his acquaintances at home and abroad.

Court Proceedings.

Court convened on Friday Aug 16, at 9 a. m. Hon. E. R. Ikeler President Judge and C. B. McHenry and C. G. Murphy associates on the bench.

Estate of Daniel Brewer, sale ordered.

W. H. Reinbold appointed tax collector of Conyngham township, bond to be approved by court or one of the Judges.

Commonwealth vs. Charles Anderson, that portion of sentence extending beyond Sept. 1 is remitted, with costs and fine.

Writ of partition awarded in estate of Henry Croop.

Daniel Reedy appointed guardian ad litem of Chas. J., Mary, William, Harry and Hattie Brittan, minor children of H. F. Brittan.

Sale ordered in estate of Carolina Mann.

Citation awarded upon G. B. Long and W. W. Jacox.

J. B. Case, administratrix of W. W. Case, vs. Alice and William Hopper, judgment for want of an appearance for $110.

A number of cases were argued, and most of the day was taken up in the case of A. Long, proprietor of the Cross Keys Hotel, Berwick, on a rule to show cause why his license should not be revoked. Jackson and Freeze were for the rule, and Scarlet and Herring for Long. The court discharged the rule.

BASE BALL.

An interesting game of base ball was played Saturday last, between the home team and the Danville Club, which resulted in a victory for the Bloomsburg Club. The following is the score of the game played:

my son suffered night and day with rheumatism; so much so that he was unable to feed himself. Your Sulphur Bitters cured him, and I am truly thankful to say they are an honest medicine.—Mrs. W. H. CARLETON, wife of Deacon Carleton, First Baptist Church, Winchester, Mass. 8-16 2w.

Hope for the Afflicted.

THE "PRESIDENT" AND THE EUROPEAN DOCTORS COMING TO BLOOMSBURG, PA.

The sick are to receive medical service free of charge. The president of the great European staff of physicians and surgeons (composed of German, English, and American doctors) will be at the Exchange Hotel, Aug. 26, 27, 28, and will render his services to the sick free of charge until the evening of Aug. 28. The only favor desired is a recommendation from those cured. The object is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted. Invalids will please not take offense if they are rejected as incurable, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. If your case is incurable they will frankly and honorably tell you. This syndicate of physicians treat every variety of disease and deformity. They have had vast experience in the hospitals and infirmaries, of London, Paris, Dublin, Belfast, Heidelberg, St. Petersburg and Stockholm. The following are the number of cases they have accepted as curable and rejected as incurable, viz.:—

	Accepted as Curable.	Rejected as Incurable.
New York	6450	3010
Philadelphia	5927	3546
Pittsburg	3799	1905
Altoona	501	187
Harrisburg	491	170
Allentown	468	161
McKeesport	500	199
Richmond, Va	2765	1151
Montreal, Can'da	4618	1421

Remember the date and go early, as you run a great risk in not being able to get examined during the last days of the doctors' stay, as their offices are crowded from morning till night. A special invitation is extended to any one suffering from diseases pronounced incurable. Office hours from 9 to 7; Sundays from 10 to 4. P. S.—This government staff of English physicians and surgeons is incorporated by an act of Legislature.

Advertising patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle Free, that they may try it before purchasing. The Large Bottles are 50c and $1.00. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

JAMISON CITY.

After a short visit to Jamison City, of less than an hour, I was requested to write a description of the place.

However, in former years, I had made several fishing tours and do not feel entirely a stranger. From my first visit I was greatly amazed at the stupendous grandeur, perhaps not as much so as Balboa when he first discovered the Pacific Ocean, or made half the ado about it, but my appreciation of the Fishing Creek valley, has never slackened. Within the radius of civilization there are perhaps few places having the magnificent natural scenery and wholesome elements as this one, that have not become noted and sought after by people from every section of the country. Then, for various reasons we can with propriety, introduce Jamison City to public notice as destined to become a great Mecca, for public resort, for health, rest, pleasure and knowledge of natural scenery. The village itself is less than a year in growth, and contains about a hundred buildings, including Steam Saw Mills, planing mills, hub factory and tannery, all of which in full operation will give employment to not less than a thousand hands, besides other industries.

The place is reached by the B. & S. railroad, which connects at Bloomsburg with the D. L. & W. and P. & R. railroads. At Bloomsburg we stepped into the cars and coursed for thirty miles up the creek, running through one of the most beautiful valleys in the State of Pennsylvania. In about one hour we arrived at Jamison City. The valley at this point is but a few hundred yards in width and two or more miles in length and nearly level land, very fertile and probably of great depth of soil, as it appears to have been formed from the deposit of vegetable mould and wash from year to year during the greater part of geological time.

At Jamison City there is a grand hotel just completed and will be opened in a few days. This palatial structure with gables and two broad porches with columns, extending around three sides of the main structure which stands upon the side of the mountain looking eastward, and ninety steps in ascent to the ground floor from the plateau below. It is also reached by an easy carriage drive way. From the hotel windows and porches is seen within a thousand yards and directly in front, a similar mountain running parallel with the first, and to the north a third mountain of nearly the same height, running across apparently to connect the two former and separated only by deep escarpments made by the two branches of the creek, having their junction immediately at the foot of the mountain. Looking to the south the first mountain gradually declines and curves to the South and eastward, giving to the valley the appearance of an elongated cup on a great tureen of nature's construction.

There are other surrounding interests that will prove of greater importance than the lumbering, some of which are beginning to be recognized. First of which is the cold, sparkling, pure mountain water to be found in numerous springs. This water should be recognized as a principal attraction, because of its perfect purity and wholesomeness. Philadelphians who murmur at their contaminated waters will find it a luxury and satisfaction to drink it right from the springs for a few days or weeks, well worth the time and cost of the trip, without considering other advantages to health, rest and pleasure to be found. This fresh water in a general sense is more beneficial in sickness and in health, not only as a cure but as a preventive of disease, than any one of the medicated waters, or all of them found in drug stores, bottled and prescribed by physicians as a panacea in specific diseases.

THE ATMOSPHERE.

The atmosphere is remarkably wholesome and invigorating. This is experienced at once by any one coming out of the city or any other place of humid and infected atmosphere with the germs of disease within them. This mountain atmosphere soon relieves them. The proof of this is observed in the fact that there are no miasmatic diseases native to the place, such as intermiting and remiting fevers, hay fever, typhus or typhoid fevers. Further more persons having contracted any of these diseases or their concomitants in remote places, here they will usually soon get well with little or no medical treatment. I am confident that persons predisposed and afflicted with rheumatism, gout, erysipelas, kidney affection and consumption will find immunity in the atmosphere in and around Jamison City. If the latter diseases are found there in sporadic instances, they are due chiefly to exposure and improper clothing and not climatic influences.

The place has long been noted as a resort for sportsmen with line and gun. The streams abound in speckled trout and the forest with game of almost every description. For the past year the railroad has given access to the beautiful groves along the creek near the city and frequently are seen strolling through the forests thousands of excursionists. People having visited the Adirondac, and Mt. Washington summits are pleased to laud their rugged grandeur, but will come to find little audience in comparison with the beauties of Fishing creek valley, and the stately evergreen mountains at its head. It is scarcely necessary to attempt any further description of the industries of the place or singularize individuals.

The early settlers were there conspicuous and their posterity has continued to advance in enlightment, and have kept even pace with the great business centers of the State. Guests at the grand hotel which has been christened "Manor Rest" can look down over the city which is no longer a city for the want of houses, for there are now streets of them springing up, and the clatter and hum of building is going on in every quarter. Mr. A. L. Fritz, who resides in Bloomsburg, and attends to the business of conveying real estate in Jamison says that building lots have doubled in price within the past eight months when the building first began.

Wilkesbarre Water Supply.

PURE WATER TO BE BROUGHT A DISTANCE OF TWENTY MILES.

The problem of supplying water for Wilkesbarre and vicinity having become a serious one, the Spring-brook Water Company was organized with $600,000 capital to bring water twenty miles from an uninhabited mountainous region. The stockholders include Ex-Congressman L. D. Shoemaker, Senator Lewis A. Watres, Ex-Representative L. Amerman, Bank President Abram Nesbitt, Daniel Edwards and Thomas Beaver. Their plan will be to wholesale water to local companies in all the towns of the Wyoming Valley. Work will be commenced immediately.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR.

Considerable surprise was manifested last week when it was announced that Major Penman had decided to appoint Capt. Wm. Gable, of Shamokin, Deputy Collector for this district. The surprise was the greater from the fact that the gentleman had not been an applicant for the position. Columbia, Montour and Northumberland had applicants and considerable influence was brought to bear in their behalf and it seemed, from all the information obtainable, that Montour county would secure the appointment, but Northumberland county quietly united on Capt. Gable and strongly pressed its claims from a political standpoint and having received in connection therewith the endorsement of Senator Cameron, the appointment went to that county. Political expediency no doubt settled the question and Montour was left out in the cold.—Montour American.

Assaulted His Wife.

A few weeks ago a friend of John Hoskins, of Centralia, died and left him $1,000. Since he received the money he has been drinking heavily, and Saturday afternoon, while under the influence of drink, he became involved in a quarrel with his wife, the result of which may prove fatal to her. They had been quarreling for some time, when Hoskins grasped a knife which lay on a table and threw it at his wife, striking her in the neck and inflicting a deep and dangerous wound. Not satisfied with this, he raised a frying-pan and brought it down upon her head, knocking her senseless. He then carried her to the stable, where she was found an hour later, bleeding profusely. Hoskins has been arrested and will be held to await the result of his wife's injuries.—Mt. Carmel News.

HOGS vs. BELLS.

FUNNY INCIDENT OF THE FLOOD AT A LOCK HAVEN HOTEL.

Ex-Judge H. L. Deiffenbach and daughter Gerda, says the Lock Haven Democrat, took their departure for Philadelphia, Thursday. By the way, Judge Deiffenbach was here at the United States Hotel during the flood, and he tells a somewhat funny story about it. Blind and all as he was, "all the company I had for two days, he said, "was a number of hogs that had been brought up stairs and put into the hall from my room. But the hogs and I," continued the Judge, "got along very well together. I had plenty of bread and butter to eat, and once I had lamb chops and once a piece of cold roast veal; so that I got along comfortably, a good deal more so than the hogs did. As there was seven feet of water on the lower floor of the hotel, there was no use attempting to ring any bells and whenever I wanted anybody I just felt my way across into the place where the hogs were, punched them up with my cane and set them to squealing like forty, and some one would come to see what the matter was and then I could get what I wanted." The Judge smiled pleasantly over this reminiscence and his auditors indulged in quiet laughter. The idea of using squealing hogs as a substitute for a bell to summon servants was an entirely original one and could only have been given birth to by such a compelling disaster as the flood.

Alleged Detectives.

The Scranton Times devotes some space to showing up the doings of some unscrupulous characters in that city who are masquerading as detectives, but who are no less than a "gang of blackmailers and sharpers." Among them it exposes a fellow named Bull who not long ago was operating in this city and vicinity and associated with Holland, Roberts and others of that class. The Scranton Times, if it undertakes to show up these fellows in their true light, has entered upon a great work in which it should receive the support and assistance, not merely of the public at large, but of the recognized officials and police authorities. This valley has been cursed too much with operations of such fellows who can be likened to nothing but vampires praying upon the members of the community.—News Dealer.

THE DEATH OF JOHN ADAMS.

HE PASSES AWAY JULY 4 LISTENING TO THE SOUNDS OF REJOICING.

After a long and brilliant career John Adams retired to his home in Quincy, Mass., intending to complete a history of his times before his death. He was then nearly 70 years old, and did not hope to live many years. Indeed, he predicted that his vanity and bad temper would throw him into a fit of apoplexy from which he expected never to recover, and it is a wonder he did not, for his florid, corpulent frame was little calculated to resist such an attack. Yet he lived nearly another quarter of a century, dying in his 92nd year, on the 4th of July, 1826, the fiftieth anniversary of American independence. The animosities of his public life were forgotten, and nothing is more beautiful than the friendship, embittered by many years of political opposition, that was revived between John Adams and Thomas Jefferson in old age.

As the Fourth of July approached the whole nation prepared to celebrate the event, and invitations poured in on the two ex-presidents who had borne so conspicuous a part in the establishment of independence to grace this occasion with their presence. But it became manifest before the day arrived that John Adams would not even be able to attend the celebration in Quincy. He was failing gradually in body, but he was alive to all that passed about him. June 30 a delegation was sent to ask him for a toast to be proposed in his name.

"Independence forever!" he replied.

"Nothing else!" in astonishment from those who remembered his old time florid style of oratory.

"Not another word. Would you gild refined gold?"

The same day he said: "I desire no other inscription over my gravestone than this: 'Here lies John Adams, who took upon himself the responsibility of the peace with France in the year 1800.'"

The morning of July 4 he lay listening to all the sounds of rejoicing, with his immediate family about him. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he took leave of them and, saying "Jefferson still survives," expired. Jefferson had died three hours before at Monticello. The news of John Adams' death reached his fellow townsmen as they were leaving the hall after the celebration. They immediately stopped their rejoicing, and forming a procession, marched with muffled drumbeats past the house where he lay.—Chicago Tribune.

GEN. HIPPOLYTE IS ON THE RUN.

HE RETIRES TO THE NORTH AFTER A HARD FIGHT, LEAVING PORT AU PRINCE TO LEGITIME.

The war in Hayti, it is expected, will be abandoned during the Summer season. Gen. Legitime, President, will continue to hold the capital of the Republic, while Gen. Hippolyte, leader of the Northern party, has been compelled to abandon his fortifications near Port au Prince and has retreated to the north. A decisive and bloody battle was fought a few days ago not more than three miles from President Legitimes' palace. The loss was heavy on both sides, but, according to the cablegram received from Port au Prince recently by Haytian Counsel-General Deslandes, Hippolyte's was the larger.

Gen. Hippolyte had succeeded in marching his army toward the southern part of Hayti, capturing little fortifications at different points along his route, and had gone into camp at La Croix de Bouquet, a village ten mile due north from Port au Prince. He had about ten thousand men, fairly well equipped, including a small force of artillery, composed of Gatlings and Howitzers. Camp was pitched about July 20, when Hippolyte and his generals decided to send outposts in the direction of Port au Prince to ascertain, if possible, the exact strength of the Southern army. The outposts, consisting of companies of infantry, reached Drouillard, about three miles from Port au Prince, while the main force, under Gen. Hippolyte, continued to enjoy camp life at La Croix de Bouquet.

Legitime called out his reserves, including everybody able to carry a gun. Very many of his men were not uniformed. Companies were pushed to the front rapidly and daily skirmishes between the outposts of the two parties took place until the rainy season set in.

Hippolyte knew that he could not remain in camp until the end of the season, and decided to attack the capital. On the night of Aug. 6 he formed his army into three divisions, which were to attack Port au Prince from as many sides. Drouillard and Frere, plantations to the eastward of the capital, were fortified when the command to advance was given. The Northern troops marched beyond the fortified places, and were about two and one half miles from the city, when they were met by the Southern army. Here a fierce and bloody battle was fought, resulting in the hasty retreat of Hippolyte. Such is the information received at the Haytian Consulate.

Consul-General Deslandes said to a reporter that it was very doubtful whether Hippolyte would attempt another attack on Port au Prince. Mr. Deslandes said that Frederick Douglass, the new Minister from the United states, would start for Port au Prince early next month.

How to Make Chocolate.

The secret in making chocolate, says a leading confectioner of New York city, is in mixing the powder with enough boiling water to make a thin paste and then pouring on boiling milk, and last a little more boiling water and scalding one minute. It can be made with all milk and no water if desired, but it is too rich for some people without the addition of some water. Chocolate, cocoa, nor any such mixture should ever be stirred with anything but a silver or a wooden spoon. A teaspoonful of chocolate to a cup is the rule, and if the liquids are poured on while are boiling and the whole scalded in porcelain —never tin—there will be no doubt but that it will be a success.—Exchange.

Best Nourishment for Consumptives.

Consumptive persons are said to be greatly benefited by the use of Speer's Port Grape Wine, both Fermented and Unfermented. It seems to give nourishment when everything else fails. The rich properties of the wine derived from the iron in the soil on which the grapes grow makes new blood and if it does not cure, we believe it prolongs life in many cases of consumption. In fact, cases have been reported of perfect cures being effected by the use of Speer's Port Wine.

THE BEHRING SEA JOB.

Three would be readier sympathy with Mr. Blaine's Behring Sea policy if it was clear that its purpose was just and not speculative.

Unluckily that is anything but clear.

The closure of the sea is in no way necessary to the protection of the seals from extermination, but it is necessary to the protection of the monopoly of seal fishing now enjoyed by a single corporate company by virtue of a grant from the United States, of which that company expects to secure an early renewal.

Our Government now unjustly forbids any American citizen to kill seals in Alaska with out a license from this monopolistic concern, and Mr. Blaine seeks to make the monopoly complete by forbidding foreigners to kill seals or catch fish in any part of a vast area.

The only apparent purpose of the attempt to close the sea is to promote the interests of this powerful monopoly whose members feed fat upon their unjust exactions. And for that improper purpose Mr. Blaine, who on one memorable occasion declared that he was never a deadhead in any enterprise, risks the embroilment of this country with its neighbors by attempting to close Behring Sea, the claim of right to do so resting upon the connection that with Alaska we bought Russia's exclusive jurisdiction over the whole of that part of the ocean.

But did Russia ever have any such exclusive jurisdiction over the seal? Not only have other nations always denied it, but the United States emphatically resented the claim so long as Russia held Alaska. It was never set up by our Government until a monopolistic corporation saw in it a means of driving its rivals out of business and consolidating its own exclusive control of the sealskin market.

Does that fact suggest the "true inwardness" of Mr. Blaine's risky and doubtfully rightful policy?—World.

Mrs Mulcahy's Pig.

PAT STOLE IT, BUT WAS READY TO RETURN IT AT THE PROPER TIME.

"You printed a story about an Irishman who was threatened by a priest with being turned into a rat unless he quit drinking and beating his wife," said a friend of the Chicago Mail's club man who gathers up anecdotes of that sort. "Let me tell you one. It isn't new, but I've never seen it printed."

I squared myself and he proceeded:

"Patrick Maginis went to confession, and, among other sins confessed to the good father that he had stolen Mrs. Mulcahy's pig, the loss of which had been a great blow to the poor woman. The priest looked at Pat very severely and said:

"'Stole Mrs. Mulcahy's pig, did ye? That's very bad, Patrick—very bad. Don't you know, Pat, that to steal a pig is a haynious sin, and to steal Mrs. Mulcahy's pig is worse? What will ye say on the day of judgment when Mrs. Mulcahy confronts ye before the Lord and charges ye with stealin' her pig—what'll ye say?"

"Pat looked rather glum at this onslaught, but at this point he perked up and said:

"'Sure, yer reverince, Mrs. Mulcahy won't be there.'

"'Indade; and why not, Pat Maginus? Mrs. Mulcahy will be there an' the pig'll be there, an' when ye're asked why ye stole the widdy's pig what'll ye say, I'm wantin' to know?'

"'Will Mrs. Mulcahy be there?' asked Pat, a great idea illuminating his face.

"'She will,' said the good father, severely.

"'And will the pig be there?'

"'Certainly.'

GO AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

The announcement of a series of what have become known as harvest excursions to be run by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway during the months of August September and October, will be joyfully received by a large number of our readers who are becoming interested in those portions of the wonderful Northwest, reached by this railroad and its connections Topographical and sectional maps accompanied by vivid descriptions and voluminous crop reports, are excellent mediums for awakening the interest of home seekers in a new country, and these supplemented by opportunities placed within the reach of all for visiting the country at a season when exact demonstration can be made of its merit, give convincing evidence of the fact that the North-Western Company has sufficent faith in the regions traveled by its lines, to extend unusual facilities for all to go and see for yourself.

The excursions will be five in number, and will leave Chicago August 6th and 20th, September 10 and 24th, and October 8th. Tickets can be purchased at the rate of one fare for the round trip to points in Iowa, Minnesota, South and North Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Montana. These tickets will be good to return thirty days from the date of purchase, with stop-over privileges in certain territories, thus giving landseekers ample time and opportunity to "spy out the land," and to discover for themselves the fitness of the great West and Northwest for homes and investments. South Dakota just blossoming into vigorous statehood, with over six million acres of government free land now open to settlement, and a large area of cheap railroad and deeded lands; the fertile valleys and mining interests of the Black Hills, of uncalculated value; the beautiful and productive Elkhorn and Niobrara valleys of Nebraska, and the broad grazing districts of Wyoming are all traversed by the Chicago & North-Western Railway, and are available by means of these excursions. Maps and circulars giving detailed information and rates from Chicago to all principal points will be mailed on application to Peculiar.

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients. Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

Job Takes Second Place.

A man in Cleveland makes affidavit that he suffered 122 consecutive days with the toothache and yet never whipped one of his children or said a cross word to his wife. No human being will believe him.

INDIANA'S SIAMESE TWINS.

One of the most wonderful freaks of nature ever known in this part of the country is now causing a good deal of talk in Kokomo and adjoining counties. Twelve miles south of Kokomo, Mrs Henry Jones had born to her twins, inseparably connected at the hips and lower addomen. The two bodies are jointed together at the base, with a head at each end, and the lower limbs protrude from each side of the body, where the trunks are connected at the hips. No vital organs are connected, except the spinal column, which is continuous from one end to the other. Each breathes and pulsates quite independent of the other, and both are perfectly framed and have free use of their limbs. Along the abdomen there is no line or mark to show where one begins and the other ends, except one umbilical cord, which served for both. The infants are very plump, well developed, and apparently as hearty as any children of their ages. Both nurse from the mother and bottle with regular movements. Both are females. Their joint weight is twelve pounds, and they measure, from crown to crown, twenty-four inches. The lower limbs are of normal size. They have bright, sparkling blue eyes, and are not in the least peevish, and when not nursing or asleep content themselves sucking their thumbs.

Thousands of people are flocking to see the infants, the medical fraternity being well represented. The mother is getting along nicely. The father is twenty-four years of age, the mother but eighteen, and the present is the second birth of the family. The mother is a spare built woman, weighing but ninety pounds. All the physicians who have made an examination express the belief that the children may live, and think the indication entirely favorable.—Indianapolis Journal.

HEART FAILURE.

The American Analyst thinks it would be an excellent idea if physicians of the present day would invent some other reason for or about all the deaths which occur nowadays than the heart-failure. It is difficult for any one conversant with the organs of the human body to understand how any human being can die without heart failure, while the causes of the failure of the heart at death may be very numerous. This might not be of serious moment were it not for the fact that hundreds of people are being nearly frightened to death by the constant use of the cause for sudden deaths, and many people who are sick, and necessarily have some heart symptoms, are kept in constant terror by reading or hearing in other ways of death after death by heart failure. It would be well if physicians who are too indolent or too ignorant to search out the disease laying back of the heart failure to consider how much harm they are doing the community, and if they can not correct the habit, newspapers and the public should avoid giving curfency to this unfounded and dangerous phrase. There are probably no more deaths from heart failure in these times than heretofore, but a new cause for death has been coined, and the nervous and timid are being severely injured by it.

Maj Montooth, a Pittburg Lawyer, Wants to Succeed Governor Beaver.

A new candidate for the Republican nomination for governor has appeared on the political horizion. It is Maj. E. A. Montooth, a prominent lawyer of Pittsburg and a gallant war veteran. The major says:

"I am a candidate for governor in 1890. I am in the fight to stay, and I have never been out of the field since the campaign when I was defeated in convention by a few votes for lieutenant governor. I propose to stay in the contest, too, until the state convention to nominate a governor in 1890 adjourns."

A weekly paper published the other day a gruesome story of the kid glove trade. It was stated that, in order to obtain a high degree of fineness and pliancy, the wretched kids had to be skinned before death, though, as a concession to sentiment, they were stupefied with an opiate prior to the operation.

The Princess of Wales has been very stern and particular in the education of her daughters. She has had good material to work upon, as her girls are clever by nature. The Princess has taken great pride in their accomplishments and feels that her discipline has been extremely beneficial. The Prince of Wales has sometimes pleaded with her in vain to give her daughters a holiday. She has often answered that, as they were to hold high social positions, they had no time to waste while acquiring social graces.

A Sweet Revenge.—"Then, my dear, you have really made up your mind to marry a widower?"

"Certainly."

"And does he never talk to you about his first wife?"

"I should like him to try. If he did I should at once begin to tell him about my third husband."—Madrid Comico

An Attack of Gravel.
The Terrible Suffering of a Woman at 60.—How She was Happily Cured.

There is nothing I now enjoy that I do not owe to having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y. My troubles began in my kidneys and from which I never expected to recover. First there were pains in my back, I was feverish, with no appetite and could not sleep, I was compelled to use a cane, and finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was terrible. I was burning up with a fever or constantly shivering as if cold. My physicians said which was alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of Gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up my case, and I resigned myself to die. I had four doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Six years ago last June, how well I remember the time! I saw Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy advertised in our paper. After using one bottle I threw away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me. I have never had a return of Gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age I am as I was in my prime. I do all my own work, and rarely know what it is to be tired. I keep the medicine in the house and give it to my grandchildren, and recommend it whatever I can. What physicians and all of the various remedies I had taken could not do Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy did—it saved the disease and made me a strong, vigorous woman.

I HAD BRIGHT'S DISEASE,

Present Age of the Earth.

The present age of the earth has been placed by Sir William Thomson at 100,000,000 years, while the speculations of others have given much larger figures. There are, however, good grounds for regarding 16,000,000 years as a moderate estimate. Scientists concur in thinking that this is but a small part of the earth's existence, and everything leads to the belief that its total evolution through the immensity of space will exceed a million centuries.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

CATARRH,
Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. A. H. B.—For catarrhal discharges peculiar to females (whites) this remedy is a specific. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 304 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Sufferers from catarrhal troubles should read the above carefully.

THE HAY FEVER SEASON
July, August, September.

At this season, when life offers the greatest attractions and the most delightful resources to persons whose soundness of body permits out-of-door exercise and amusements, multitudes are deterred from the joys of the summer by hay fever, one of the most exasperating, wearisome, and depressing ills to which humanity is subject—obscure inexplicable, descending on a given date like an inevitable blow of fate. The sufferers from hay fever have looked in vain for any trustworthy remedy. Many of them, however, have looked in vain because they have been ignorant of Ely's Cream Balm, an adquirable remedy for hay fever in all its forms. Agreeable in the use, entirely devoid of any unpleasant after-effects, this Cream Balm quickly allays inflammation and secures that relief for which the sufferer has longed in vain."—From The Christian Union, New York City, July 18, 1889.
